WILD ENGINE

Crushes a Well Known Farmer
To Death.

Geo. W. Winfree Killed Saturday Morning at His Home
Near Casky.

Geo. W. Winfree, one of the best known farmers in Christian county, was the victim of a fatal accident at six o'clock Saturday morning at his home near Casky. He was crushed to death while handling a separator and traction engine. While not instantly killed, he was hurt in such a way that he died within thirty minutes.

Mr. Winfree and his brother Matt Winfree had been operating the thresher for several weeks and on Friday night Mr. Winfree finished his own crop. The engine was pulled into the shed, but the separator was left outside until the next morning. Early Saturday morning Mr. Winfree fired up the engine and with the assistance of a negro boy named Hewdy Wagoner backed it out from under the long shed in which the machine was kept and started it towards the separator to couple on to it and pull it back into the shed, the threshing season being over. Mr. Winfree was standing on the engine, which was backing down upon the separator. It began to go faster than intended and threatened to become unmanageable. Mr. Winfree saw it rapidly approaching the separator and realized that he was in danger. He tried to work the brakes but failed to stop it and then grabbed for the lever controlling the throttle. In his excitement he pulled it the wrong way and threw the throttle wide open. With a plung the engine shot against the separator a few feet away. Then was no way to dodge, no place to jump and nothing to prevent the awful fate that befell him. He was caught between the engine and the separator and horribly crushed about the chest. The negro boy bravely ran to his assistance and turned the lever back, causing the engine to reverse. The helpless body of the unfortunate man fell to the ground and as soon as help could be called was taken into the house. Mr. Winfree spoke once or twice after reaching the house, trying to explain his injuries, but he sank rapidly and died in half an hour.

He was the third son of a family of 14 children, all of whom reached maturity. He is the third to die.
He leaves a large family—five daughters and three small sons.
He was born Sept. 7, 1847 and, was in his 52nd year.

The funeral services were held Sunday afternoon and the burial took place in the family graveyard at his home. Mr. Winfree was an elder in the Cumberland Presbyterian church and was a man of prominence and solid worth. His untimely death was a shock to the entire community in which he had long been a leading citizen.
